

Thermography Advantage

Notice of Privacy Practices

The Department of Health and Human Services has established a 'Privacy Rule' to help insure that personal health care information is protected for privacy. The Privacy Rule was also created in order to provide a standard for certain health care providers to obtain their client's consent for uses and disclosures of health information about the client to carry out treatment, payment or health care operations. As our client we want you to know that we respect the privacy of your personal medical records and that we will do all we can to secure and protect that privacy. We strive to always take reasonable precautions to protect your privacy. When it is appropriate and necessary, we provide the minimum necessary information to only those we feel are in need of your health care information and information about treatment, payment or health care operations in order to provide health care that is in your best interest.

We also want you to know that we support your full access to your personal medical records. We may have indirect treatment relationships with you (such as laboratories that only interact with physicians and not clients), and may have to disclose personal health information for purposes of treatment, payment or healthcare operations. These entities are most often not required to obtain patient consent.

You may refuse in writing to consent to the use or disclosure of your personal health information.